AFTER TAKING THE Elixir!

RIGHT'S DOCTOR

CELEBRATED REJUVENATING ELIXIR Prepared on the strictest P ha rmaceutical principles by one of the ablest Che mists of the age.

This is altogether a new medicine, the result of modern discoveries in the vigetable kingdem, being an entirely new and abstract method of cure, irrespective of all the old and worn out systems published by accomplished quacks to the suffering. Dr. Wright, well knowing the deception practised upon the uninitiated, felt it his duty at once to have this Elixir tested by the whole Medical Faculty, who, withent even one dissenting voice, have given in their adherence to its perfect and undivided control over the whole physical mass when his frame has been reduced, and when all other medicines known to the Pharussoo posis have been tried in vain. Long-thought years of patient investigation, and a nell desperandum determination have crowned the Docter's sflorts, and he now offers the Elixir to suffering humanity as the only thing that can cure the following diseases—namely:

eral Debility,
Mental and Physical Depression, Imbellity,

Intermination of Bland to the Head,

Confused Ideas,

Hysteris,

General Irritability,

Rostlessness and Siceplessness at Night, Absence of Muscular Efficiency. Loss of Appetite, Disorganization of the Organs of Generation, Palpitation of the Heart, And, in fact, all the concomitants of a nervous and debilitate

SPRING AND SUMMER It is quite different from alcoholic preparations. It is not subject to reactions in any shape; it continues to exert its influence gradually and efficiently, as long as the least necessity exists for its presence. As a Female Medicine, It is equally powerful and effective, and restores the equilibrium sooner and safer than all the other medicines which for years have flooded the market, and which are only injurious, in place of assisting or renovating the constitution. for a very good rea son, too, that they are only made from the effusions of minds gnorant of the Medical profession altogether.

No Minerals ! Dr. Wright thinks it well to stake his professional characters on the fact, that no minerals whatever form the least component parts of the ingredients of his Rejuvenating Elixir—well know mercury.

Generally, to the debilitated, Dr. Wrigat would say, Never despair. No matter how worn down you may be, no matter how weak you are—so matter what the cause may have been—forsake at once whatever has led you to depart from Hygienic principles Rejuvenating Elixir, And you will soon find yourself a new man-a pride instead II Price $2 per bottle, or three bottles for $5, and forwarded by mall to all parts of the United States.

the Post Office from, as well as the one to, which they desire the change to be made. So many persons, unacquainted with the organization of an army are making inquiries upor the subject, that we copy from the Cincinnat Gazette the following outline of its elements, as recognized in the French school and in our own, so far we have had armies: A company is the unit of an army, and is supposed to average, on the war basis, one hundred men offiers included. The general rule for the organization of such a company gives one captain, two lieu-tenants, five sergeants and four corporals, and ensign, who carried the flag; but his place is now supplied by the color sergeat. There is one more sergeant than corporals, the first sergeant being alled the orderly sergeant, and is next to the Captain, the most important man in the company car-rying the books of the company, and calling the oll morning and evening. The company is formed, when in column, into two platoons and four sections, each platoon commanded by a lieutenant, and each section by a sergeant. A regiment is regularly composed of ten compa-nies, or two battallions; a battalion being half a regiment, composed of five companies-one of them called a light or rout company, intended in regular service to operate outside of the heavy columns as flanking parties, guards, etc. The officers of a regiment, independent of company officers, are a colonel, lieut colonel, two majors, adjutant, quartermaster, and commissary. Each separate body of troops must have a commissary and quartermaster, but in a large army, they are appointed to regiments or brigades. A regiment, when constituted, will be formed thus: 1 colonel. l lient, colonel, I adjutant, I quartermaster, I commissary, 2 majors, 10 captains, 20 lieutenants, 50 sergeants, 40 corporals, and 850 private men-makcompany has regularly a drummer and fifer, which these notes was a part of the consideration make a regimental band of 20, besides the drum P. S.—Roofling and Guttering in Copper and Tin in the most superior styles, in town and country. Peck, Smith & Co.'s Tingerior styles, in town and country. Peck, Smith & Co.'s Tingerior styles, in town and country. A brigade should be composed of two regiments.

> mmense armies, there is one other. The corps is composed of two or more divisions, frequently of four or five. The corps is, in the French service, properly commanded by a field marshal-an officer unknown to our country and the corps is properly a complete army in itself.
> In Napoleon's march on Russia, be had eight or ten of these corps in active service—making a field army of from 250,000 to 300,000 med. From the ments we have given it will be seen that however arge the army may be, it is so organized as to be perfect in all its parts and moves with exact order and discipline. In the field all orders and opera-tions are carried on through the staff of the army, and when we come to active service, the staff is the nost important part of the army; for, this being a vast machine, of which each part is perfectly obed > ent to and directed by the head, it is evident that all must depend on the skill ability and discern-ment of the staff through which it acts. It is in vain that Scott, or any great general, commands, if the staff officers are incompetent.

> The staff consists of the aids, the adjutant gener al, the engineer, the quartermaster, and commis sary generals. Through the adjutant general orders are conveyed to each particular part. By the quarter-master general all transportations, and ve cles, and horses are furnished; by the commissary all supplies; by the engineer the topography of the country is thoroughly examined, the practicability of passes determined, fortifications built or attack-ed. Then the staff of an army becomes its eyes, and its faculties, the general simply deciding the movements of the army on the facts and elements thus furnished. In the grand French armies there was a chief-of-the-staff, or head of the active military bureau. In Napoleon's time, this chief-of the staff was Marshal Berthier, deemed one of the ablest officers of the French army. Napoleon knew the value of a good staff, and had abler men in it than were at the heads of divisions. No More Provisions for the South. The following notice has been sent to the Presi lents of the railroads running south from Phila-

The justice found against the defence and gave judgment for the whole amount. The defendant appealed to the Circuit Court of t appealed to the Circuit Court, when the jury gave a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for only $87.50, allowing, as they say in their verdict, damages of $54.35 by way of "recempment." Whereuson the Court gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff for the $87.50, and the small amount of costs accrued in establishing his claim, and against him for the remainder of the costs of the case amounting to up-wards of $200. The plaintiff appealed. Whether this judgment in relation to the costs was right, is the only question to be considered, as the merits of the case upon the facts are settled by ful party, in all civil action, is entitled to full costs, unless otherwise directed by law." These directions to the contrary, or exceptions, are set out in the next section which embraces those cases where damages do not exceed five dollars action for siander, &c.

To sustain this judgment of the Court we are eferred to two cases of our own. The first is in Swan 202, where it is held that when a plaintiff 2 Swan 202, where it is held that when a pismed declares in seperate counts upon several causes of action, and only succeeds on part, he must pay the costs of those on which he fails, and defendant on the costs of the costs o others. The other is that of Boothe vs. Cowan 5 Sneed 354, in which it was held that where a set-off was relied upon in defence, and that, as well as the claim of the plaintiff, was established, each party was entitled to judgment for the costa incurred in sustaining their respective claims. In that case the set-off was larger than the demand established for

nvestigation of the defence set up of fraud and want of consideration. The whole note was resisted upon these grounds, but the defence only proved successful to the extent of $54.

The code, sec. 3,197, provides that "the success-the plaintiff, and he had judgment for the excess. But he was only allowed the costs which arose from the contest upon his set-off, and was made to pay those which accrued on the adverse claim of the unsuccessful plaintiff.

Both cases were decided correctly, though rather inovations upon the law of costs in court under the act of 1794. But this is a different case altegether, and cannot be governed by the same principle or reason. Here there is nothing admitted to be due the plaintiff, but his whole demand is contested. His whole claim is improched for fraud, and vesisted for the plaintiff, but his whole demand is contested. His whole claim is imposched for fraud, and resisted for failure or want of consideration. In cases where an adverse demand is set up in defence as a set off, the claim on the other side is admitted, or if not the two actions are tried together to avoid circuity. In such cases each party must answer for the costs to which he puts his adversary in sustaining a demand against him which is found by the verdict to be just. But where the whole demand of the plaintiff, upon any ground, is contested, and it is only reduced in amount, how can it be said that the statute allowing full cost to the successful party does not apply? If the rule fadopted in this case were adopted, the powers of a Court of equity as to costs would be exercised by courts of law in the face of the act of 1794 and the code. We can go no further than we have done in the cases cifed on

So the rule carried out would me impracticable and absurd. The judgment of the Court as to costs must be reversed, and judgment given here against the defendant for all the csots.

The facts are, that defendant Hildreth, in 1852, purchased the land of Pursley, and took his land for title. In the same year, 31st December, he sold to defendant Estridge, who executed his two notes of that date for the consideration, one for $72 50, eighty-five men. Formerly each company had an due 25th December, 1853, and the other for the same amount, due 25th December, 1854. These note were assigned to one Collier, 7th February, 1853 and by him to the complainant Dishmon, March 14th

> The object of the bill is to make the land liable for these notes. It is insisted by defendant, Jones, the owner of the land, upon the ground that Pursley made a deed directly to Estridge, dated January, 1853, registered October, 1854, and that he purch ed the same of Estridge and obtained his deed in October, 1855, upon these facts he insists that the lien was last, and cannot follow the land into his Estridge at the time he sold to Jones, inform him that he had not paid to his vendor. Hildreth these notes. We have very little doubt from the pleadings, that he agreed to pay them as a part of the consideration. He admits in his answer, that he said to Hildreth that he would do as he pleased about that. But concedes in his answer that he only paid in a yoke of oxen and a store account, the val-ue of $100 00, or perhaps "less." That with the amount of these notes, would make about what Pursley proves the land was then worth. This is a ing 975, but in reality there are some others; each strong circumstance to show that the payment of But independent of that, upon well established plainant can be maintained. The sale to Estridge when he gave these notes to his vendee was witha squadron of cavalry, a corps of field artillery. If out deed, and whatever title be bought was encumthese were all full, a complete brigade operating bered with a lien which passed to the assignee of alone, would in our service or in the French, make the notes. Could this lien be defeated by a deed from the original vender, under his bond for title A division is composed of two brigades, with additional corps, of cavalry and artillery, making in our army, including the whole staff and music, about the notes to the complet, as endouse, it could not be ,000 men. This is the highest dement of organiza- avoided by the acts of others. Even if deeds had tion in our service ; but in France, as they organize | been made to Hildreth, and by him to Estridge upon the execution of these notes, and the land was bought by Jones, with full knowledge that they r maired unpaid, the land would be made hable if the notes had continued in the bands of the vendor; but such lien would not ensure to the benefit of the endorsee, because the equal title had been parted with. But here the equal title was still, in the hands of the eriginal vendor, and of course did not pass to Estridge at the time of his purchase and the execution of these notes. So in every view the land was properly made liable for the satisfaction of the judgments on the notes, and the decree will be affirmed in the cases.
